

ABSTRACT

A method, and a corresponding system, provide for managing a storage area network (SAN). The method includes the steps of receiving an alert related to a state of a device coupled to the network, parsing the alert to identify the state of the device, identifying action required in response to the identified state of the device, and identifying a notification message. The notification message provides information related to the state of the device.